Ayodhya Ram temple a fusion of faith, culture and progress

Nripendra Misra

The Shri Ram Temple is more than a physical structure, it is a beacon of India's cultural and spiritual heritage. Every element of its construction reflects the dedication, precision, vision and expectation of millions of devotees in the country and abroad. From the careful selection of materials to the integration of advanced engineering techniques, every decision has been guided by the temple's structural stability: to serve as a place of devotion and inspiration for generations to come.

The temple's design incorporates features that enhance its cultural and spiritual significance. Intricate carvings on sandstone pillars and walls, traditional motifs, and alignment with celestial principles add profound meaning to its architecture.

The construction of the Shri Ram Temple in Ayodhya is not just an architectural feat, it is a confluence of faith, history, and modern engineering.

This iconic structure, nearing completion by March 2025, symbolises India's spiritual heritage, brought to life by innovative engineering practices and timeless traditions, ensuring its endurance for 1,000 years.

The temple's foundation incorporates advanced techniques while respecting the principles of traditional Indian temple construction. At the heart of it lies a 1.5m-thick plain cement concrete (PCC) raft, supported by a roller compacted concrete (RCC) base extending 12-15m deep.

This design ensures that temple's weight is evenly distributed, safeguarding stability. Experts from IIT Madras, alongside other leading professionals, meticulously designed the PCC mix to achieve an unprecedented 1,000-year design life.

The use of M35-grade concrete, tested for 56-day strength, ensures durability, structural integrity, and resistance to environmental factors.

The construction of the massive PCC raft presented unique challenges. The pouring process required careful planning to prevent thermal stress, which could cause cracks. Advance thermal simulations were conducted to predict heat generation during curing — a critical phase when the chemical reaction between cement and water releases heat.

Despite these precautions, minor surface cracks of 1mm appeared during the early stages of curing. Experts from IIT Madras, IIT Delhi, CBRI Roorkee, Larsen & Toubro and Tata Consulting Engineers, with guidance from Prof VSRaju and the temple trust construction committee, identified thermal strain as the primary cause. The initial large pour size (27m x 9m x

Ram temple construction offers lessons for future projects aiming to preserve heritage

1.5m) and the heat of hydration were contributing factors. The pour size was reduced to 9m x 9m x 1.5m to limit thermal stress. Optimised curing techniques, including controlled hydration rates and temperature monitoring via embedded sensors, were introduced.

Additionally, the PCC raft surface was treated with a special chemical compound to enhance durability and address minor surface irregularities. These interventions resolved the cracking issue and reinforced the engineering rigour behind the project.

One of the most distinctive features of the temple is the conscious exclusion of steel and iron from its construction. While steel is commonly used in modern construction, its susceptibility to corrosion posed a challenge for a structure designed for such longevity.

stone interlocking techniques inspired by ancient Indian temple architecture were employed. Massive sandstone blocks were precision-cut and interlocked without metal fasteners.

This method, used in heritage structures like the Konark Sun Temple and Brihadeeswara Temple, has stood the test of time.

While the foundation and structure draw heavily from traditional methods, the construction process leverages state-of-the-art technology.

Advanced tools like 3D modelling and finite element analysis ensured precision and quality. Automated monitoring systems provided real-time data.

The construction of the Ayodhya Ram Temple offers valuable lessons for future projects aiming to preserve heritage while embracing technological advancements, sustainability, and engineering innovation.

It reminds us of India's ability to blend its rich heritage with cutting-edge technology, creating landmarks that inspire awe and reverence. It is a tribute to the vision, dedication, and skill of everyone involved in its construction, from architects and engineers to artisans and labourers. When the first rays of the sun illuminate the temple's intricately carved walls, they will shine upon a structure that embodies the soul of India — a confluence of devotion, tradition, and progress.

(The writer is chairman of the Ayodhya Ram temple construction committee)

Guj village shuns kites to let painted storks soar safely

Tushar.Tere@timesofindia.com

Vadodara: For 16-year-old Mayur Chauhan, Uttarayan is more than just a celebration — it is a tradition inalienable with kite flying. He and his friends used to begin preparations at least 10 days before Jan 14, and by the festival's peak, the skies above his native village Luna, 20 km from Vadodara, would be a battlefield of soaring kites and playful rivalries.

Four years ago, however, everything changed when painted storks, which frequented the village in winters, found Luna as their haven.

Now, kites no longer clash in the skies here, and jubilant screams of 'kaipo che' (I've cut your kite) have fallen silent. Not just Mayur and his friends, but the majority of villagers have grounded their kites lest the sharp strings slice the delicate necks of painted storks.

For Luna, the painted storks are not just feathered visitors — they are family whom the residents fiercely protect. This village with a 2,000-strong population hosts over 300 painted storks every winter. "I'm passionate about flying kites, but for the last two years, I haven't flown one. I do climb the terrace during Uttarayan, but just to keep an eye on the storks and see to it that the kites don't disturb them," said Mayur.

Few villagers who can't resist flying kites do so at noon, when the birds usually rest in their nests. The storks have been staying on the trees around a pond in the village for decades, but earlier the residents were not aware of this bird. "About 10 years ago, we started organising awareness programmes about the painted storks in the village and explained to people how we should conserve these birds," said Pravin Arya, who runs Society for Jeevrakshak for Animals in Pevra taluk with his son Rupesh.

SAFE HAVEN: For Luna villagers, the painted storks — they are family whom they fiercely protect

The villagers soon developed a close bond with the storks, and started looking after them.

"About three years ago, a group of men used to sneak into the village at night and hunt the storks for meat. When the villagers got a whiff of it, they formed teams and started night patrolling in areas where the storks nest. Eventually, the hunting stopped," said Arya. "People even stopped fishing in the pond in winter to ensure that the stork babies get abundant food," Rupesh told TOI.

Punjab MLA 'accidentally' killed self while cleaning pistol at home: Cops

Ludhiana: AAP MLA from Ludhiana West Gurbpreet Bassi Gogi (58) was killed when his .25 calibre pistol "went off accidentally" at his and the "bullet pierced his temple."

The incident occurred at around 11.30pm on Friday, reports Payal Dhawan. Inspector Balwinder Kaur said, "As per family statements, his wife and cook were in kitchen, while his son was in his bedroom. Suddenly, they heard a loud sound. His wife rushed to the room to find him dead. The pistol was in his right hand, and he had a head injury."

Kaur said according to investigation, Gogi was checking or cleaning his weapon when it went off. Police or health officials have not yet shared details of his autopsy report.

BJP: CAG confirms Kejriwal as 'kingpin'

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

New Delhi: Citing the finding of Comptroller and Auditor General that Kejriwal's liquor policy caused a loss of more than 2,000 crore to the state exchequer, BJP sharpened its attack against AAP over 'Liquorgate', while emphasising that the AAP chief has been indicted by the same federal auditor whose findings he used to launch his political career

"If Delhi has suffered a fiscal scam of Rs 2,026 crores today, the sole responsibility lies with Arvind Kejriwal and AAP. Kejriwal is the 'kingpin' of the liquor scam," said senior BJP leader and Lok Sabha MP Anurag Thakur at a press conference.

BJP chief JP Nadda also joined in the attack 'AAP' DA model of loot has been exposed by the CAG report. "Intoxicated by power, high on misgovernance. 'AAP' DA model of loot in full display and that too on something like liquor," Nadda said in a post on X, adding, "just a matter of a few weeks before they are voted out and punished for their misdeeds".

The BJP president stated that the CAG report on 'Liquorgate' exposed Kejriwal, his party's govt in Delhi, and "intentional lapses in policy implementation" leading to a loss of over Rs 2,026 crore to the exchequer.

Thakur said AAP had promised to build 'Pathshala,' but instead, it constructed 'Madhushala.' They talked about 'Jhaadu,' but it led them to 'Daaru.' They spoke of 'Swaraj,' but it turned into 'Sharab.' "The journey of the past 10 years of AAP govt is marked by corruption and 'AAP KA PAAP'. There is not just one but multiple scams that have taken place," Thakur added.

"Since independence, there has been no govt that has committed as many sins as AAP has. That is why 'AAP-DA' must go from power. When the people of Delhi were battling Covid, facing a lack of oxygen and facilities, the AAP govt remained indifferent. During that critical time, they were busy conspiring in the liquor scam," Thakur said.

Art is a catalyst for social change, says dancer

Also present was philanthropist and danseuse Shaluu Jindal, who spoke passionately about the role of art in preserving culture and inspiring generations. "I have always believed in the transformative power of art — which is also a medium to inspire and a catalyst for social change — and by bringing together the works of legendary artists and tomorrow's blue chip artists, AOI 2025 is a bridge connecting our glorious past with an inspiring future."

If Kenneth da Nobrega, the Brazilian ambassador to India, drew attention to the power of creative expression to "transcend languages, borders, and inspire a connection especially in these challenging geopolitical times", Raghavendra Singh, chief of public affairs & head govt business, Kotak Mahindra Bank said, "The whole idea was that we not only do the financial management of the rich and wealthy of India, but we also try to connect our clients with the soul of India and the soul of art." # CAG: Recommendations of expert panel ignored

It dramatically surfaced in political circles on Saturday, leading BJP to launch a ferocious attack on AAP. Approached by TOI, sources in the govt confirmed its authenticity. The report talks about the pricing of liquor left at the discretion of the manufacturer and wholesalers instead of the govt, something which was the focus of CBI's investigation. "This discretion allowed LI licencee (manufacturer and wholesaler) to manipulate prices of liquor to its own advantage," CAG has said. This led to a decline in sales and loss to exchequer, the report says, adding that there was no monitoring of quality control either of the liquor sold in the capital.

CAG said the recommendations of the expert committee, formed for suggesting changes for formation of new excise policy, were ignored

Instead of end-to-end tracking for liquor sale through bar code scanning, the excise department went for post-sale stock reconciliation, undermining inventory tracking and data accuracy, according to the report. The audit also looked into the records of the new excise policy for 2021-22. While ED and CBI in their probe had alleged payoffs of Rs 1,000 crore, CAG in its findings, after evaluation of excise department documents, has claimed the irregularities resulted in a total loss of Rs 2,027 crore.

"There was revenue loss of Rs 890 crore to the govt as it did not re-tender the surrendered retail licences," the report has said, in addition to the loss of Rs 941 crore due to exemptions. The federal auditor has said that the AAP govt overruled the excise department to give waiver of licence fees of Rs 144 crore to zonal licencees on the basis of Covid restrictions (28 Dec 2021 to 27 Jan 2022).
