SC: Sharjeel Imam's speech on 'chicken's neck' is objectionable

Could Have Been Worded Better, Admits Sharjeel

AmitAnand.Choudhary
@timesofindia.com

New Delhi: Analysing alleged inflammatory speeches of Sharjeel Imam, being prosecuted under UAPA in the Delhi riots case, Supreme Court on Tuesday said his speech on blocking the "chicken's neck", or Siliguri Corridor, was objectionable, but his lawyer pointed out other parts of the speech in which he appealed to protesters to adhere to constitutional spirit and non-violence.

Senior advocate Siddharth Dave, appearing for Sharjeel, also told SC that there was no credible evidence against him because of which he was right-

Senior advocate Siddharth Dave, appearing for Sharjeel, pointed out other parts of the speech in which he appealed to protesters to adhere to constitutional spirit and non-violence ly not made an accused in any one of the 750 cases related to the 2020 riots registered in the national capital.

When the transcribed version of Sharjeel's speech given at Aligarh Muslim University, in which he had talked about blocking the "chicken's neck" — on the India-Bangladesh border — to cut off Northeastern states from rest of the country, was read out, a bench of Justices Arvind Kumar and N V Anjaria said, "It is objectionable." Dave agreed with SC's observation and said the speech could have been worded differently, but he made SC hear other clippings of his speeches in which he had appealed to people not to resort to violence.

Dave contended that Sharjeel was being prosecuted in 10 different cases in different states arising out of his speeches and he had been granted bail in all the cases and cannot be prosecuted again under anti-terror law UAPA on that basis. He told SC that he was already in custody when the Delhi riots broke out and there was no evidence against him as he was not associated in any way with the riots.

"There is a legislation in Parliament. He was resisting the legislation. He is entitled to protest. Some of his speeches are unpalatable. It could have remained within the four corners of law but today he is standing, asking for bail after six years in custody. He was not physically present or an accused in any of the cases when the riots actually took place," he said. Dave also questioned why the govt did not bring NIA to probe the cases in view of the Delhi police's grave allegation that it was an attempt for regime change and attack on sovereignty and integrity of the country.

Police earlier told SC that a wrong narrative was being created to project that young students were being targeted, but the truth is that they were behind "well-crafted, orchestrated, preplanned, choreographed riots" to divide the country on communal line to achieve "the final regime change goal".

Must collect blood sample in murder cases: K'taka HC

Vasantha.Kumar
@timesofindia.com

Bengaluru: Karnataka high court directed the state police chief and the director of prosecutions to issue instructions to the authorities concerned to collect blood samples of deceased persons in murder cases, or of injured persons, and to submit blood group reports in court as part of the prosecution papers.

Justices R Devdas and B Muralidhara Pai issued the direction while hearing a murder case in which Naregal police failed to provide blood grouping evidence. Bhimappa, a railway porter, allegedly fatally attacked his wife with an axe in 2019, suspecting her of having an extramarital affair.

In its verdict in 2021, the trial court sentenced Bhimappa to life imprisonment for murder and to two years' imprisonment along with a fine of ₹5,000 under Section 484A of IPC (cruelty by a husband towards his wife). Bhimappa argued that the court had erred by relying on interested witnesses.

HC noted that Bhimappa had not disputed these accounts during trial. It pointed out a lapse by the investigating officer in failing to obtain the blood group report of the deceased. "The very purpose of collecting blood-stained mud, clothes, and other incriminating articles during investigation is to link the circumstantial evidence and corroborate the guilt of the accused. If the investigating agency fails to obtain the blood grouping report of the deceased or the injured, as the case may be, the very object of collecting blood-stained material is defeated," the bench observed.
