Accenture bets on AI, expects mid-single digit growth

Accenture aims to grow in mid-single digits in constant currency over the next two years and expects that to move up to high single digits from its financial year 2029. It expects demand from artificial intelligence (AI) services to offset the current revenue pressure. "Our three-year financial ambition is to achieve at least mid-single-digit revenue growth in constant currency, FY27 and FY28. And then a step up in the range of growth from mid-single-digit to high-single-digit starting in FY29 and taking market share throughout the entire period. Our ambition includes continuing to expand operating margin while investing at scale," Accenture chairperson and chief executive officer Julie Sweet (pictured) said.

Anthropic exec says open-source AI models are higher risk

Anthropic PBC's top sales executive outside the US argued that open alternatives to its AI models carry "more risk" of cybersecurity incidents or other dangers. "We need to be really careful with open-source on safety," Guillaume Prinsen, Anthropic's head of international, told Bloomberg TV at the International AI Summit in Dublin on Wednesday. "I can't talk for open models. But by definition, there's more risk with them."

Next AI phase about outcomes, not experiments: OpenAI exec

The next phase of AI will be about driving outcomes rather than experiments, with firms defining specific problems and measuring how much AI contributes to solving them, OpenAI's head of public policy and strategy for India, Pragya Misra, said on Wednesday. Citing an example, Misra said online car marketplace Cars24 used OpenAI's models for nearly a million conversations a month through a customer agent that helps sellers list their cars. PTI

ASML shares rise as demand for chip gear outpaces supply

ASML Holding NV shares rose after the Dutch company said soaring artificial intelligence (AI) spending means it's searching for ways to produce more chip-making machines over the next two years. ASML said its current supply plans mean it won't be able to fully meet demand in 2027 and 2028. "We are investigating ways to increase capacity for 2028 beyond the 30 per cent increase we previously communicated," Chief Executive Officer Christophe Fouquet said in a statement Wednesday on its third-quarter results.

India positioning itself as trusted global supply chain partner: Vaishnaw

AASHISH ARYAN New Delhi, 14 October

India is positioning itself as a trusted supply chain partner in manufacturing, design, and other capabilities the country is entering, Union Electronics and Information Technology Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw said on Wednesday.

"It is no longer just about cost. Trust and cybersecurity are becoming very important. Countries like India are placing themselves as a trusted partner for global value chains," Vaishnaw said. He was speaking at the Bloomberg New Economy Forum being held in New Delhi.

Tech sovereignty, Vaishnaw added, had to be looked at in a very complex and mature way wherein the country would have to think along the lines of "strategic dependencies and resilience" and the products for which India should depend on others.

"Technology is always a global value chain. We want to

TECHNOLOGY IS ALWAYS A GLOBAL VALUE CHAIN. WE WANT TO BE DEEPLY EMBEDDED IN THIS VALUE CHAIN

Ashwini Vaishnaw Union Minister of Electronics & Information Technology

be deeply embedded in this value chain and be able to add value to those parts of the value chain where we play the best role," Vaishnaw said.

One of the most critical challenges in building an end-to-end manufacturing supply chain is the shortage of materials for manufacturing products of all kinds, the Union minister said.

India will, therefore, need to continuously evaluate its partners and work with like-minded countries to develop such technology stacks, Vaishnaw said.

Chuck Robbins, chair and chief executive officer of Cisco, who was on the same panel with Vaishnaw, said the success of the technology stacks offered by different companies and countries will depend entirely on the relationship between these firms and the geographies they operate in.

"I do not think most countries are under the pretence that they could do it all when it comes to artificial intelligence (AI). I think that it is very difficult because by the time you build a piece of technology that comes from our portfolio or someone else's portfolio, it is probably obsolete," Robbins further said.

Shamrock AI raises $5 million in seed round led by Endiya Partners

UDISHA SRIVASTAV New Delhi, 14 October

Enterprise artificial intelligence (AI) company Shamrock AI, which is building an agentic assurance platform for large enterprises, has raised $5 million (nearly ₹47.34 crore) in a seed funding round, led by Endiya Partners, with participation from Capria Ventures.

Speaking with Business Standard, Anuraag Nallapati, cofounder and head of product and strategy at Shamrock AI, said the biggest challenge the company is trying to solve with enterprise AI adoption is trust. "For agents to be deployed in production and automate critical processes, the people who are experts in those processes need to trust that the agents will perform as expected, especially when they are supporting billions of dollars in revenue," Nallapati said.

The company plans to use its first institutional funding to accelerate product development, strengthen the team and scale up go-to-market efforts. "We primarily want to focus the funds on hiring and maturing the product, followed by sales and marketing. We want to get to about 15 customers by the end of next year, with all of them being at the Fortune 500 scale. Our annual contract values typically start at around $200,000 and can go up to more than $2 million."
