it has recorded growth in a similar range.

This is despite the developer hiking price 10-12% on average across its portfolio of projects consequent to the rise in raw material prices. "Consumers know well that inflation is a problem across the board, so prices will go up. That has not been a deterrent to sales. Rising interest rates pose more of a challenge, but lending institutions are going all out to woo retail home loan customers, which is keeping the sales momentum going," Hiranandani

Tata Realty and Infrastructure (TRIL) hopes to close the July-September quarter with a 15% growth over last year, and expects to exit the year with a 20% growth versus last year, said Sanjay Dutt, managing director and CEO, TRIL. "We have seen a month-on-month increase in home sales. It is substantiated by our project at Bahadurgarh, near Delhi-NCR, which did remarkably well. All our one BHK inventories were sold out within the first month of the launch," he said.
