Britain May Slash Inheritance Tax in Next Wk's Budget

London: The UK may cut taxes on inheritance when it unveils its latest budget next week, The Telegraph newspaper reported, as the government tries to support a slowing economy without reighting inflationary pressures. A reduction in the country's inheritance tax was possible, the newspaper said, along with an extension of the "full expensing" benefit for companies' investments announced in the last budget in March. Also under consideration for next week's Autumn Statement was a cut to stamp duty. It added, without giving additional details. Bloomberg

Liberia's George Weah Concedes Defeat to Boakai

Monrovia: Liberian incumbent president and football legend George Weah conceded defeat on Friday evening after nearly complete returns showed opposition leader Joseph Boakai leading with nearly 51% of the run-off ballots. "The results announced tonight, though not final, indicate that... Boakai is in a lead that we cannot surpass," Weah said in a speech on national radio. The CDC (party) has lost the election, but Liberia has won. This is the time for graciousness in defeat, to put national interest above personal interest," he said. The expected victory for former V-P Boakai would be a second term for the 78-year-old, who lost to Weah, 57, by a large margin in the second-round presidential vote in 2017. AFP

Better Sops in PLI 2.0

Of these approved companies, 35 companies are ready to start their manufacturing on Day Zero while the other four will start production within the next 90 days. "Vishnu said, "The government expects that these companies will generate a total of 50,000 direct jobs and 150,000 indirect jobs. The second phase of the PLI scheme for IT hardware was notified in May this year. It had a budgetary outlay of ₹77,000 crore, which was more than double the incentives offered by the ministry of electronics and information technology in the first phase of the scheme. The first phase had, however, failed to attract enough applications, and was given a miss by major companies. Till June 2022, the total investments under the first phase of the scheme were only around ₹120 crore as against estimated investments of more than ₹2,000 crore. Subsequently, it was decided to start a second phase of the PLI scheme which was introduced with better terms and an improved incentive structure for applicants. This attracted proposals from about 38 Indian and foreign IT hardware manufacturing companies. In August, the government said the proposals received had laid out plans for incremental investments of more than ₹4,000 crore, with an additional production value expected to be ₹1,650 lakh crore over the next six years. Global IT hardware giants such as Dell and HP applied directly under the scheme, while others such as Lenovo had applied for the scheme through their respective EMS (electronic manufacturing services) companies such as Electronics and Rising Star, a subsidiary of Taiwan's Foxconn. Indian companies such as Pegatron (Dixon), VVDN, Network, Symra, Optemus, Sahasra, Neo, Pancha, Sofo (Lava) and Raycom Tech had also applied, the ministry had then said. The companies which have not applied yet under the revised scheme are also evaluating their proposals, according to Vishnu, who said it is just a matter of time before these companies also set up shop in India. "We have a very objective evaluation mechanism. And the companies which have been evaluated and passed the rigour that is required, only those have been approved. Many of the companies already have their investments in India. So, this will be the incremental investment," Vishnu said.

Israeli Air Strikes Kill 32 in Gaza Amid Calls for Civilians to Flee

Israel warns civilians in south Gaza to relocate as it turns to attack Hamas in the enclave's south

Gaza: Jerusalem: Israeli air strikes on residential blocks in south Gaza killed at least 32 Palestinians on Saturday, medical aid from Israel said, as it turned to attack Hamas in the enclave's south after subduing the north.

Such a move could compel hundreds of thousands of Palestinians who fled south from the Israeli assault on Gaza City to move again, along with residents of Khan Younis, the south's largest city, and reversing a dire humanitarian crisis.

"We're asking people to relocate. I know it's not easy for many of them, but we don't want to see civilians caught up in the crossfire," Mark Regev, an aide to Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, told MSN on Friday. Israel vowed to annihilate the Hamas militant group that controls the Gaza Strip after its Oct. 7 rampage into Israel in which its fighters killed 1,200 people and dragged 200 hostages into the enclave, according to Israeli tallies.

Since then, Israel has bombed much of Gaza City, the enclave's urban core - rubble, ordered the

The first planeload of Palestinian children wounded in the Israeli-Hamas war reached the United Arab Emirates on Saturday. The group of 15 people, including children and their family members, made it across the Gaza Strip's Rafah border crossing with Egypt on Friday. They then took a flight to Abu Dhabi, the capital of the Emirates.

depopulation of the northern half of the narrow strip and displaced around two-thirds of Gaza's 2.3 million Palestinians. Many of those who have fled fear their homelessness could become permanent.

Gaza health authorities raised the death toll on Friday to more than 12,000, 5,000 of them children. The United Nations deemed those figures credible, though they are now disputed infrequently due to the difficulty of collecting information.

Overnight on Saturday, 25 Palestinians were killed and 23 injured by an air strike on two apartments in a multi-story block in a busy residential district of Khan Younis, according to health officials.

Eyad Al-Zaenm told Reuters he lost his aunt, her children and her grandchildren in the air strike in Khan Younis, and that all had been evacuated from north Gaza on Israeli army orders only to die where the army told them they could be safe. "All of them were martyred. They had nothing to do with the (Hamas) resistance," said Zaenm, standing outside the mosque at Saseer Hospital in Khan Younis where 25 bodies were laid out before they were to be carried by loved ones to burial sites. Reuters

US: Hamas Must Release Hostages to Get More Aid

Washington: Hamas must release more hostages in return for a significant increase in aid to Gaza and a pause in fighting, one of the US's top Middle East envoys said on Saturday.

"The surge in humanitarian relief, the surge in fuel, the pause in fighting will come when hostages are released," said Brett McGurk, who's Joe Biden's Coordinator for the Middle East and North Africa. McGurk, speaking at the ISS Manama Dialogue, a regional security conference in Bahrain, said the US's approach has helped hostage negotiations so far. Hamas, which the US and European designate a terrorist organization, swarmed Israeli communities on Oct. 7, killing 1,200 people and taking 240 back to Gaza as hostages. Israel's responded with massive airstrikes and a ground offensive on the enclave, which the Hamas-run government says have killed more than 12,000 people. Bloomberg

Samsung Executive Chairman Pleads for Chance to Lead as Lawyers Seek Jail

Jay Y. Lee

Seoul: Samsung Electronics Co. Executive Chairman Jay Y. Lee denied wrongdoing and pleaded for a chance to lead South Korea's biggest company after prosecutors requested he receive a five-year prison term for charges involving a controversial merger of two Samsung Group units in 2015.

In the hearing at the Seoul Central District Court on Friday, prosecutors also asked for Lee to be fined 500 million won ($360,000). The court is scheduled to deliver its ruling on January 26, ending a trial that has lasted more than three years.

In his final argument late Friday, Lee stressed his duty to steer the company his grandfather founded to the next stage at a time of heightened geopolitical risks, rapid supply chain reorganization and technological disruptions. He said his responsibilities include preparing for the future while competing and collaborating with global tech giants.

"I will give everything I have to fulfill these responsibilities," he said in an argument that lasted about 10 minutes. Bloomberg

SpaceX Starship Rocket Lost in Second Test Flight

SpaceX launched its mega rocket Starship but lost both the booster and the spacecraft in a pair of explosions minutes into Saturday's test flight. The rocketship reached space following liftoff from South Texas, but communication suddenly was lost. SpaceX officials said it appears the ship's self-destruct system blew it up over the Gulf of Mexico. AP

Russian Drone Attack Hits Ukraine Infra

Kyiv: Russia carried out a major drone attack on Ukraine on Friday night, hitting infrastructure facilities and causing power outages in more than 400 towns and villages in the south and in the Zaporizhzhia region in the southeast where it cut off from electricity after networkers were damaged in the strikes.

Last winter, Russia pounded Ukraine with hundreds of missiles and drones, leaving millions without electricity, heating, and water during the coldest months.

This Ukraine had an unusually warm autumn, but as temperatures start to fall, officials have urged residents and businesses to prepare for renewed Russian attacks. "We don't have a right to relax," Volodymyr Kyrytskiy head of the power grid operator Ukrenergo, told Ukrainian TV. "Certain only all of us, energy workers and defence forces, are preparing to repel possible Russian attacks on the energy infrastructure this winter." Reuters

Gender Diversity Goals

This will help create a culturally dynamic and forward-looking organisation for the next phase of growth, said Pataky. The focus is on creating opportunities across businesses.

"This includes hiring younger talent as well as women engineers in our factories and across the organisation," said Pataky. "The group aims to achieve a 15% gender diversity mix by FY20 from the current mix of 6%."

Engineering and construction conglomerate Larsen & Toubro will hire 30% women for Graduate Engineer Trainee (GET) and Fresh Graduate Engineer Trainee (PGET) intake. "We have seen a consistent rise in our women's hiring and overall initiatives to increase the women workforce," said CHRO C. Jayakumar. "We remain committed to further increasing this percentage in the current year," he added.

RPG Group is aiming for more than 40% gender diversity in fresher hiring from the Class of 2024, up from 35% a year ago. Suparik Bhattacharya, chief talent officer said, "Entry level fresher hiring is a key way for us to build gender diversity into our workforce."

Companies like Volant are focusing on campus drives from women engineering colleges like Jorhat Institute of Technology. The company has increased the intake of female workers from 22% in 2020 to 40% in 2023, and is aiming at 50% in the next couple of years, said Madhu Srivastava, CHRO. Global energy company Schneider Electric, which sees India as a global talent hub, is targeting a 50% gender mix for new hires across diverse domains including data analytics, digital services, data science, and cybersecurity. "This is critical to building a robust pipeline of future leaders in various technical domains," said Binu Philip, CHRO for the Greater India Zone at Schneider Electric.

Shocked and Saddened, Says Brockman

Sutcliffe and his allies on the OpenAI board had cheered at Altman's efforts to raise funds off of OpenAI's name, and harbored concerns that the new businesses might not share the same goodness model as OpenAI, the person cited said.

Altman remained upbeat late on Friday, according to a person close to him. In a post on X, Altman said, "I love you all." He added, "Today was a weird experience in many ways. But one unexpected one is that it has been such like reading your own eulogy while you're still alive. The outpouring of love is awesome."

Shockwaves over the moves were felt widely within OpenAI and across the tech landscape. "Sam and I are shocked and saddened by what the board did today," Brockman wrote in a post on X, formerly Twitter. "We too are still trying to figure out exactly what happened."

Executives at Microsoft, the largest investor in OpenAI, were also taken by surprise. Microsoft CEO Satya Nadella was "blindsided" by the news and was furious, according to someone with direct knowledge of his thinking. Altman is likely to start another company, one person said, and will work with former employees of OpenAI. There has been a wave of departures following Altman's firing, and there are likely to be more in the coming days, this person said.

In another post, Altman suggested he would have more to say about the company in the future. "If I see anything off, the OpenAI board should get after me for the full value of my shares." Altman famously has said he has zero equity in the startup.

Elon Musk Says X to File 'Thermonuclear' Lawsuit Against Media Watchdog

Media watchdog Media Matters alleges ads were being placed alongside antisemitic content

New York: X Corp, formerly known as Twitter, will file a lawsuit against Media Matters and those who attacked social media platform X, Elon Musk said on Saturday in a post on the platform, soon after major US companies paused their advertisements on the site.

"The split second court orders on Monday, X will be filing a thermonuclear lawsuit against Media Matters and all those who colluded in this fraudulent attack on our company," Musk wrote in a post on X, without naming any other parties.

Liberal media watchdog group Media Matters for America earlier this week said it found that corporate advertisements by IBM, Apple, Oracle and Comcast's Xfinity were being placed alongside antisemitic content.

IBM on Thursday said it immediately suspended all advertising on Musk-owned X after the watchdog found its ads were placed next to content promoting Adolf Hitler and the Nazi Party.

Disney Warner Bros Discovery and Comcast, Lions Gate Entertainment and Paramount Global said they were also pausing their ads on X. X's ad revenue partner, Xaxis, would do the same.

Musk on Wednesday endorsed an antisemitism on X but falsely claimed that the Jewish community were stoiking hatred against white people.

WH Slams Musk for His Remarks on Antisemitism

San Francisco: The White House has slammed Elon Musk for his "abhorrent" promotion of antisemitism and racist hate, while several top American companies like Apple have pulled out from his social media platform X. "It is unacceptable to repeat the hateful lies behind the most fatal act of antisemitism in American history at any time, let alone one month after the deadliest day for the Jewish people since the Holocaust," White House spokesman Andrew Bates said. PTI

America posted a story that completely misrepresented the real experience on X, in another attempt to undermine freedom of speech and mislead advertisers," a statement posted by Musk said. "Media Matters created an alternate account and curated the posts appearing in their advertising account's timeline to misinform advertisers about the placement of their posts." Reuters

Balanced Policy: Kant

However, after Israel's massive counter-offensive, which has led to thousands of civilian deaths in Gaza, there is a strong possibility that Arab countries such as Saudi Arabia and the UAE could want to put the IMEC project on the backburner. Kant, though, believes the project will flourish. "With India's balanced policy and close relations with participant countries, we have every reason to believe IMEC will be a resounding success," he said.

Kant also said it was critical to understand that IMEC is a long-term initiative, along with being crucial to driving regional prosperity.

"The development of islands, ports, inland waterways and multimodal hubs will lead to a reduction in the cost of logistics. For instance, in the case of India, IMEC has the potential to reduce trade with the EU, our second largest trading partner, by 40%," he said.

India's official push to green hydrogen - the hydrogen pipeline he planned as part of IMEC - can significantly boost India's export potential in the field. "It will also be critical in developing a regional clean hydrogen economy," as four of eight signatory countries (EU, Germany, France and Italy) can potentially import hydrogen, while others such as India, Saudi Arabia and the UAE have strong hydrogen export potential," Kant said. Last month, US President Joe Biden said at a press conference that he is "convinced" that one of the reasons Hamas attacked is "the cause of the progress we were making towards regional integration for Israel, and regional integration overall," indirectly referring to the redoubt initiatives such as IMEC, as well as an agreement that the US was trying to reach between Israel and Saudi Arabia for normalisation.
