JSW Neo Buys Statkraft's Hydropower Unit in HP

Our Bureau

₹1,727 CR
ENTERPRISE VALUE OF THE POWER UNIT

New Delhi: JSW Neo Energy has acquired Statkraft's Himachal Pradesh hydropower unit for an enterprise value of ₹1,727 crore, according to a stock exchange disclosure on Thursday.

ET had first reported in its Wednesday edition that JSW Neo Energy had emerged the frontrunner to acquire the unit outbidding KKR-backed Serentica Renewables and Torrent Power.

The unit is developing a 150 megawatts hydropower project along the Tidong tributary of Sutlej River in Himachal Pradesh.

Statkraft is said to have already incurred majority of the project capital expenditure of around ₹2,000 crore in Tidong Hydro Power. The physical attributes of the project include an 8 kilometer long head race tunnel built through mountainous terrain that will convey water to the power station, a 110 meter high surge shaft, a 1,200 meter long pressure shaft and a surface power house. Norway government-owned Statkraft is exiting India and has put all its assets on the block.

Serentica acquired the solar power generation business of Statkraft for an enterprise value of $220-250 million earlier this week, outbidding Blackstone. Its solar assets are located in Rajasthan.

ET had first reported about the deal in its 15 september edition.

JSW Neo is an arm of JSW Energy which houses the renewable energy generation business of the Sajjan Jindal-led JSW group. It has been augmenting its energy generation capacity through acquisitions and organically.
