

Advisory on Lumpy Skin Disease

From Our Correspondent

SHILLONG, June 11: Amid concerns about Lumpy Skin Disease (LSD) spreading among cattle in the state, the government on Sunday issued an advisory and helpline numbers to the general public to prevent further infection. Lumpy Skin Disease is a viral disease in cattle which can spread by bites of mosquitoes, flies and ticks. It is characterised by formation of nodules on the skin all over the body. The infected animals often recover within a period of 2-3 weeks.

Although the disease does not transmit to humans, the consumption of meat and milk of the infected cattle, however, is advised to be avoided, while they are also prohibited from being sold.

In case of detection of the disease, the farmers should isolate the infected animals from the healthy ones. The affected area must be disinfected using sodium hypochlorite, phenol or formalin. The Rapid Response Teams of Veterinary department must be informed immediately for help.

Gloves and face mask is compulsory for person dealing with the infected animals, while movement to and from the affected cattle shed should be restricted, according to the government advisory. Mosquitoes and flies in cattle sheds should be controlled by application of a repellent. In case of the death of cattle, the carcass should be disposed of by deep burial method. Cattle markets within 10 km radius of epicenter should be closed.

All the healthy animals including calf of more than 4 months and above within 5 km radius around infected area should be vaccinated to protect and prevent the animal from dying.

Vaccination camps are being organised and farmers can call helpline for date and time of such camps in nearby villages, the advisory said. Mobile veterinary clinic will be sent to affected villages for treatment and disinfection, it added.

Govt told to find cause of diseases infecting animals

By Our Reporter

SHILLONG, June 11: Amid concerns about diseases spreading among animals such as cows and pigs, whose meat form a significant part of the diet of the people in the state, former MLAPT Sawkmie has urged the Animal Husbandry and Veterinary Minister AL Hek to direct the department to unearth the main cause(s) for the disease spreading among the cattle and pigs of the state.

“So far people are still in the dark since no information has been shared by the department on African Swine Flu (AFS) and the Lumpy Skin Disease (LSD) suffered by the pigs and cattle,” Sawkmie said.

According to him, the people would like to know whether the disease is only in Meghalaya or other parts of the country too.

He emphasised the need for the AH&V department to share advisories to the people who rear pigs and cattle, as well as meat sellers and the general public.

He lamented that in view of the current situation, people have had to resort to a different diet. Not only beef and pork even fish imported from outside the state is unsafe now due to the reported presence of formalin, he added.

Sawkmie suggested that the Fisheries department, Commissionerate of Food Safety and the fish sellers should work closely to ensure that the fish sold in the market are safe for consumption.

“I would also suggest the need to conduct tests on all the fish consignment which are being imported from outside the state. This is important for the health and safety of the citizens,” Sawkmie said, while adding that the UDP Mawlai Circle has also flagged concern over the prevailing situation.

B'desh PM sends 3,000 kg mangoes for all CMs of NE

From CK Nayak

NEW DELHI, June 11: June is the month of mangoes known as the King of fruits, and like every year in recent past, Bangladesh Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina has sent mangoes as a gift to the Chief Ministers of the Northeastern states of India including Meghalaya and Assam fostering stronger relationships between the two neighbouring countries.

The 3,000 kg of mangoes packed in 600 boxes were handed over to the officials of the Assistant High Commission of Bangladesh at Guwahati on Saturday. Amaljoti Barua, administrative officer of the High Commission of Bangladesh and other officers received the mangoes.

Every year, Bangladesh PM Sheikh Hasina sends mangoes to Northeast India. In fact, during the COVID-19 pandemic period, Hasina has scored over Pakistan when other countries accepted her mangoes as gift but rejected the same from Pakistan sent by the then Prime Minister, Imran Khan.

Hasina's gesture is widely appreciated in Northeast and West Bengal which share a long border with Bangladesh. Incidentally, mango is the national fruit of India and Pakistan, and mango tree is the national tree of Bangladesh.

But very few know mango was popularised in China as a gift by none other than revolutionary leader Mao Zedong which gave rise to mango diplomacy decades later.

Three held with 256 Phensedyl bottles

SGH Police on lookout for kingpin

The arrested persons with the seized contraband.

From Our Correspondent

BAGHMARA, June 11: The Anti Narcotics Task Force (ANTF) of South Garo Hills arrested at least three persons from Gasuapara village after a huge consignment of the contraband, Phensedyl, was found from their possession.

The incident took place on Saturday afternoon.

As per reports, sources informed the SGH police of the house of one Badal Koch in the village of Kodomboka where a huge consignment of contraband was being stored. The area is close to the border with Bangladesh which has a very high demand for the contraband, amongst others.

After receiving the information, a raid was conducted by the ANTF team of SGH on the house of Koch from where at least 256 bottles (100ml each) of the banned cough syrup was recovered.

Accordingly, all the suspects involved in the trade were arrested along with Koch.

Police, however, added that they are on the lookout for the kingpin who is allegedly hiding in Assam.

The three suspects taken into custody are Badal Koch, Dilgrak M Sangma and Sengbath R Marak (both of Purakhasia, WGH) and a case has been registered at Gasuapara PS.

Investigation into the matter is currently on, as informed by SGH police.

Shillong Jottings

Hello, dear umbrellas

All of a sudden, umbrellas have again become essential, no? A spell of rain has begun and it seems it'll stay for some time.

What this signals is a change in your daily modus operandi — pack an umbrella wherever you go; shoes shall no longer keep shining no matter how spick and span you look when you leave your home.

For motorists, it becomes tougher. All will agree that even a drizzle feels like its pouring when one is riding the bike/scooter. But the Shillongites, accustomed to their city's rainy disposition, seemed ready.

Motorists were in raincoats braving the rain on Sunday, getting to wherever it is they were headed.

This year, the monsoon season is late by a week and for our state reeling under load-shedding, the rains come as a ray of hope. Hope that the power supply will once again be available 24x7. But inconveniences do not cease instantly with rains, at least it's apparent as load-shedding has continued.

A fishy affair

The use of formalin, a solution of formaldehyde in water, is common in several varieties of fish imported from Andhra Pradesh, which is over 2,000 km away. Formalin is used as a disinfectant and for preservation of dead bodies and other biological specimen.

But it is not a recent phenomenon. Prior to the latest ban on imported fish, the state government had on several occasions prohibited sale and consumption of some varieties like rohu, katla, pomfret and pangasius that are laced with formalin and quite harmful for humans.

Despite making efforts, the government has been unable to promote local varieties of fish.

Now that imported fish is off the menu, it is hoped that local varieties of fish would enthrall the taste buds of the citizens and keep fish lovers happy, without burning a hole in their pockets.

Biz tycoon Anand Mahindra keen to visit Mawlynnong

he gets an opportunity. Mawlynnong's reputation has boosted local tourism and with Mahindra's visit and his subsequent postings in social media, it is likely to boost local tourism further. The business tycoon has over 10 million followers on Twitter.

Anand Mahindra was mesmerised by a Twitter thread about various beautiful villages in India after which the industrialist re-shared the thread and added how these places are now on his travel bucket list. Some of the villages included in the list are Mawlynnong in Meghalaya, Kollengode in Kerala, Mathoor in Tamil Nadu and Varanga in Karnataka.

"This beauty around us just left me speechless...my bucket list for travel in India now overflows....," read the caption of the post shared by Mahindra. Mawlynnong is also known as God's Own Garden and in 2003, it was awarded the title of the cleanest village in Asia by Discover India.

The waste is collected in the dustbins made of bamboo, directed to a pit and then used as manure.

A community initiative mandates that all residents including those in home-stays should participate in cleaning up the village and smoking and use of polythene is banned while rainwater harvesting is encouraged.
