Kurukshetra Kartikeya Temple

Intertwined with epic narrative of Mahabharata

The Kartikeya Temple in Kurukshetra, Haryana, is a revered site dedicated to Lord Kartikeya, the elder son of Lord Shiva and Goddess Parvati, and the brother of Lord Ganesh. Known as Murugan or Subramanya, Lord Kartikeya is worshipped as the God of war and victory.

The Skanda Purana recounts the origins of Kartikeya. After the death of Sati, Lord Shiva underwent severe penance. The Devas eventually sought to have him remarried to Parvati, leading to the birth of Kartikeya. He was born with six faces and was named Kartikeya after being nurtured by the Kritika (Pleiades). As a young warrior, he defeated the demon Taraka, earning his place as a formidable deity.

Another legend recounts that Lord Kartikeya, while meditating to please Brahma, was disturbed by celestial nymphs sent by Indra. In retaliation, Kartikeya declared that any woman who entered his temple would turn to stone, which is why women are not permitted within the temple premises. The temple complex, often referred to as

Saraswati Pilgrimage or Pehowa Dham, features numerous sacred ghats and other shrines, including those dedicated to Shiva-Parvati and Lakshmi Narayan. Rituals and practices

The temple is primarily dedicated to the Brahmachari form of Lord Kartikeya, leading to strict regulations, particularly the prohibition of women. Devotees partake in rituals, especially during Chaturmas, and anoint the Pindi of Lord Kartikeya with oil, a practice stemming from the legend of Yudhishtira's offerings. Many devotees believe that those who sincerely worship at the Kartikeya Temple will find success in their endeavors and never lose battles in life.

The temple is open daily from 5:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m., welcoming thousands of pilgrims drawn by its historical significance and spiritual allure. Visiting this temple not only offers a glimpse into rich cultural traditions but also a connection to ancient narratives that continue to resonate in contemporary Hindu belief.

"Observing Lanka, which resembled Mount Kailas, with skyscrapers appearing as if they were flying, filled with dreadful demons and nagas protecting the city of Bhogavati (the city of Patala), it was unimaginably well-built. Once occupied by Kubera, the half-brother of Ravana, the city was guarded by fearsome demons holding tridents and spears. The city appeared like a cavern protected by venomous serpents with protruding fangs. Hanuman examined the high security of Lanka and looked at the ocean. He thought of Ravana, a formidable enemy:
