Once the Company undergoes CIRP, the IRP/RP is not liable to bear the expenses incurred by or on behalf of the suspended board of directors until and unless the possession of the property is in the custody of IRP/RP or the property is used for commercial purpose by IRP/RP. The property was never in the custody of RP 3. There is no express privity of contract after the initiation of CIRP. Hence, if the property is continued to be used by the suspended board of directors even after the expiry of the validity of the agreement, then they are liable personally for the same and not the Corporate debtor or the RP to bear its expenses as all of them are separate entities in the eyes of law. 4. If the situation persistsin this case, the suspended board of directors will thereafter be considered trespassers to the property.
